

Ohio, the Buckeye State, Welcomes CSCTFL to Columbus, the State Capital

Don't Miss the 2013 Conference: MultiTasks, MultiSkills, MultiConnections

Our 2013 CSCTFL/OFLA Conference is one you will not want to miss! What a great opportunity for you to enhance your professional expertise. And what a venue we will have! The spectacular Hilton Columbus Downtown, opening this fall, will be filled with language teachers from throughout the US for the conference to be held March 14-16, 2013. The upcoming event will be the 45th conference for the Central States Conference on the Teaching of Foreign Languages and the 5th time OFLA will host the event. Under the leadership of CSCTFL Executive Director Patrick Raven, 2013 Program Chair Leann Wilcoxon and Local Program Chair Sarah Shackelford we are off to a great start!

The sessions that have been accepted cover a wide variety of topics for all teaching levels and include Activities and Strategies, Advocacy and Policy, Assessment, Content Areas, Culture, Curriculum and Articulation, Languages for Professions and Business, Professional Development, Research and Technology. There are two full day workshops, twenty-nine half day workshops and fifteen CSCTFL All Star Sessions and Workshops offered. We are proud to say that many OFLA members will be presenting. Check out the details for all offerings at <http://www.csctfl.org/conferences/2013conference.html>. Additionally, several Ohio chapters of the world language AATs will be hosting three gala events on Friday evening of the conference. Columbus, our state capitol is located in central Ohio and is considered a major tradeshow, exhibition and meeting destination. The city offers its visitors great shopping, world-class dining and a variety of activities and places to experience. Columbus is easily accessible whether arriving by air or driving to the city. Port Columbus, the city's primary airport, provides service to most domestic destinations as well as Canada and Mexico. OFLA is thrilled to host the joint CSCTFL/OFLA 2013 Conference in the city settled by explorers in the 1700s. As a major American city with a population of more than 700,000, Columbus boasts a strong economy with a variety of industries. We are confident that CSC, OFLA and Columbus will not disappoint! We invite you to join us in Columbus. Mark your calendar for March 14-16, 2013. Every now and again a really great year comes along, and this is going to be the year!
